October 30, 2014

You will not have another chance like this, for fun and thrills and an adrenalin rush. If there is anything left after Halloween night, we will post about it, but then again, there may be nothing left with life, breath and blood.

If it should be that you become one of the many victims of the denizens of the Haunt, R.I.P. knowing that your last ten dollars went to one of the deserving charities served by the amazing group of workers who created this monumental endeavor.
